In his advertisement Doctor Perryman specifies that he wants a middle-aged woman, not one of those girls who will swing on the garden gate.

Doctor Perryman's threat to get married has aroused the interest of his friends in Belleville, who say that they believe he is only making a "bluff" in the hope that some of his many friends will assist him in procuring the housekeeper he so anxiousity desires. His friends assert that Doctor Perryman's troubles seem to be from the propensity his hired girls have had to swing on a garden gate in the rear of his house and talk and firt with a number of young men across the way. According to the doctor, this happens so frequently that he and "Taddie" are left without their meals.

Promoters of Lincoln Mountain Gold Mining Company Convicted of Fraudulent Use of Mails,

William F. Wernse, Harry W. Wernse, Edward A. Wernse, G. W. Spencer, H. C. Popping and A. J. Sentence was deferred by Judge Adams until a later date. The defendants, who were at liberty on a $2,500 bond in each case, were admitted to ball with the same sure-ties. The bonds of William W. G. W. Spencer were raised to $4,500, and the bonds of the others allowed to remain at the old figure.

The three Wernses gave bond, but the others were held in custody in default of hall. The Wernses were ordered to report to Judge Adams dally until sentence is passed upon them.

The six defendants comprised the corporations known as the W. F. Wernse Bond and Stock Company and the G. W. Spencer Industrial Securities Company. Among other properties which they controlled were several mines just outside the Cripple Creek district, in Colorado, near Gillette, Colons of these mining properties, known as the Lincoln Mountain Gold Mining and Milling Company, was said, in the prospectus issued, to have $5,000,000 worth of gold ore in sight, and to be one of the best investments in the world.

The evidence showed that only $45,000 was received from investors in this scheme, of which $30,000 was invested by Anthony Prenter, a larmer near O'Fallon, Ill. The amounts subscribed by other investors ranged from $300 to $100. It was shown that the promoters issued one dividend of 21 per cent on this investment, only 1 per cent of which was actually paid by the Lincoln Mountain Company, the other 20 per cent being paid out of the earnings of the other properties controlled by the promoters.

The contestee claims that the five days in which the contestant has to take depositions should be devoted to hearing testimony in rebuttal to the direct testimony already given, and not for the purpose of hearing more direct testimony.

Several witnesses were examined before Notary Sanders at yesterday's session, nearly all of them being questioned regarding how they had cast their ballots at the last election relative to the candidates for Congress in the Twelfth District. Some of the witnesses stated they could not write, and that their ballots had been prepared by the Republican judge at the precinct in which they voted.

In saying that their ballot was incorrect if it indicated that they had voted against Wagoner, the witnesses took particular pains to state that they did not think any of the election officials in their precincts would think of tampering with a ballot after it had been voted; that they regarded them as honest men, and if any mistake had been made it might have been a clerical error.

Interest in the proceedings seems to be lagging and it appears to be a difficult matter to get witnesses to respond to summons issued. Most of the witnesses who testified yesterday were voters in the Fifth Ward.

The hearing of testimony will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock before Notary Banders, on the third floor of the Keiser building. Next Monday is the last day.

William Muir, who conducts a billiard room at No. 3142 Olive street, was arrested by the police after the shooting. He declares that the shooting was accidental. The woman's statement to the police is at variance with that of Muir, however.

Muir said: "I have known the woman some time and was there when she came in. I had just removed my revolver from my pocket and she grabbed at it. She had playfully thrown two of my pistols from a window and I attempted to keep her from getting it from me. While we were strugging for the pistol it was discharged."

CHILD'S BODY FOUND. The body of a small child, probably years old, was discovered among a mass of a rough board box at the wreck yesterday and brought to the morgue.

S. S. Elder of Bisbee, Ariz., arrived this morning and identified his son as one of the victims in the morgue. On one of the bodies that was examined to-day a brass button was found clinging to a burnt piece of coat, with the letters, "N. G. W." The conductor of No. 8 says there was no one on his train up to the time of arriving at Tueson that wore a uniform. The wreck was burning all last night and this morning smoke could be seen from this city, sixteen miles distant. It is a settled fact that four negroes lost their lives in the wreck. They were buffet men on No. 8. That all the bodies have not been taken from the wreck is further strengthened by the odor of burning flesh which permeates all parts of the wreck, especially at the point where the smoker and the second Pullman of No. 8 were telescoped. SCORES OF INQUIRIES.

Scores of messages are arriving from all parts of the country, making inquiries as to people on the two trains. Word has just been received from Bis-bee that makes it almost certain that J.

B. Angus, a prominent merchant of that place, is among the victims of the wreck. His body has not been recovered. The opinion of the passengers who were on the wrecked trains is that the loss of life may be fifty or sixty. One of them him if it were even greater. Railroad officials would not make any statement further than that Operator lough at Valls was rest

THREE DISTINCT SHOCKS.

"The crash came at 3:11, as was discovered later by the stopped watch of one of the dead engineers.

"There were three distinct shocks, the first resulting from the setting of the powerful brakes. So suddenly was the air thrown on that the rear trucks of our car leaped into the air, feemingly two feet. This was the greatest shock to us. Then followed the two other lars.

"I looked out of the window immediately and observed a great glare et light. It was caused by the burning cars. The baggage, postal and day coaches seemed to fiash up in one blaze at the touch of the engines. It was the most sudden confiagration I ever witnessed.

"There were no groans from the twenty or more victims buried in that burning mass. All must have been killed instantly. The flames were so flerce that those who were not killed instantly by the shock must have perished within a minute or two from the intense heat. The grand crash must have signaled the death of all, and, therefore, the complete destruction of cars and inmates mercifully saved victims from the tortures of the flames.

"Although efforts were made to search the wreck for passengers, the heat of the flames precluded this. The passengers who were unburt immediately arranged mattresses on the ground and conveyed the wounded to the improvised couches. We saw nothing of the victims of the burning cars. The second section of our train came up and removed all passengers.

HEADS BRILISED HEADS BRUISED.

HEADS BRUISED.

"Passengers in the uninjured Pullmans, without exception, sustained bruised heads. It was a matter of general comment afterwards that each passenger had one or more bumps on his head, caused by the sudden stopping of the cars, which threw the sleeping passengers against the headboards with considerable force.

"I saw one narrow escape. The agent for Wells, Fargo & Co. was in the car, and the shock threw about a ton of trunks and grips upon him. He literally was buried deep with baggage. A baggageman pushed the obstructions off, and the Wells-Fargo man came out without injury. I saw one fellow come through a car window with the fire right behind him. He said he had waited to get his shoes, and, while groping for them, dropped his pocketbook containing all his money and ticket. The fire became so threatening that he was forced to leave his valuables."

At the afternoon session announcement was made that the mine workers and the Reading Company's officials had agreed that the weighing of coal in the Southern coal fields is impracticable, owing to the pitching of veins.

This settles, so far as this field is concerned, one of the principal points in dispute. It is still a bone of contention in the middle and upper regions.

ASTHMA CMmates wear out. Smokes and sprays do not cure. They relieve symptoms instead of removing causes; whereas we take Asthmas so thoroughly out of the system that nothing remains which can produce an attack; sufferers are soon able to work, eat, sleep and stand exposure without the slightest return of Asthma. Being right in principle, our treatment does what "reliefs" cannot do. We cure to stay cured severe, long standing and pronounced "incurable" cases. If you are skepitcal, it is because you are ignorant of our great work. Since 1883 we have ireated 52,000 Asthma and Hay Fever sufferers. If you desire complete relief, health restored and no return of Asthma, write for our Book. 57. Free. P. Harold Haves. Buffalo. N. Y.
